Description

We present this beautiful ceramic dish with openwork around the edge. It is from the Art Nouveau period with in the center a portrait of a woman in profile, an Egyptian. Initially we thought of Théodore DECK, but that is not the case. All DECK pieces are signed, which is not the case with our dish, which would have never made openwork pieces. As a last resort we attribute it to LACHENAL in addition what reinforces us in this idea is that on the back we notice an L. (E)
