Description

Neo-Renaissance style hand mirror.
Silvered bronze.
Second half of the 19th century.

This mirror was offered to the winner of the contest set up by Charles Crozatier (1796-1855), sculptor, founder and chiseller, who promoted the best representatives of his profession.
A fine work of casted and silvered bronze surrounds a bevelled mirror. It is decorated with a cartouche bearing the motto of Emperor Charles V "plus ultra" and the mention "Crozatier competition".
