Description

Pierre de Berroeta is a 20th century painter. Both painter and designer, P. de Berroeta knows how to give a lively character to his works by working on the staging of various geometric shapes. This method of painting is reminiscent of a certain style, that of Vassily Kandinsky. This painting plunges us into an imaginary world with an urban setting loaded with various recognizable elements, such as suspension bridges, viaducts or cavities. With a panel of 7 colors, the artist immerses us in an atypical universe that does not leave the viewer indifferent.
