Description

Pair of vases and tray from the Faïencerie de Gien, which owes its fame for 200 years to the quality and meticulousness of its creations. Hand-painted in the Italian Renaissance style, the large octagonal tray has a polychrome decoration with foliage, cupids and chimeras. It has a perimeter with a stylized orange frieze and small handles. A pair of vases accompanies this tray. Decorated in the same way, they represent a love in the center, surrounded by chimeras. Each has a circular belly and a very flared neck. The shimmering colors and the delicacy of this earthenware make this tray and these two vases a refined and harmonious whole.  Period: Early 20th century Excellent condition.
