18th Century Louis XVI Wall Clock

Description

This exceptional Louis XVI wall clock, crafted in the 18th century, exemplifies the neoclassical elegance and precision characteristic of the period. The case is made of finely cast and gilded bronze, showcasing intricate detailing that reflects the refined artistry of the Louis XVI style. The clock's design is anchored by its symmetrical composition, with classical motifs such as laurel wreaths, garlands, and fluted pilasters. Two allegorical female figures flank the sides, embodying grace and harmony. The top is crowned with a draped urn finial, symbolizing timelessness and refinement, while the lower section features an ornate foliate and ribbon motif.

The circular enamel dial, signed by the maker, features Arabic numerals and delicately shaped
