Description

Pair of paintings representing two village views signed Régis. The first is a view of the small village of Montméjean in the Aveyron, a charming little village with its lauze-roofed houses, it is located on the edge of the Causse Noir and dominates the Dourbie valley, its presence is attested from the end of the XI century. The second is a view of Saint Geniès in the Dordogne, considered one of the most beautiful villages in the Périgord Noir. it is located halfway between Sarlat and Montignac Lascaux. Its charm is due to its ocher stone houses and traditional Lauze roofs. They are sold in their original frames. Dimensions:
