Description

Louis XIII Chair in Oak and Walnut from the 17th Century. Very Large Carved Wooden Backrest surmounted by a Coat of Arms in the form of a crest, with very finely chiseled Coat of Arms. It rests on four feet connected by a twisted spacer. The seat and the fabric have been redone, and are in very good condition. Created according to a codified system and reflecting the identity of the person who wears them, the Coat of Arms plays a role of identification, reserved for Nobles and Bourgeois in Medieval Society. Our chair measures 122 cm in height, 42 cm in width and 39 cm in depth. The seat height is 44 cm
