Description

This large 18th century tabernacle (Spain) from a chapel is very decorative due to its large size and its numerous motifs in gilt and red painted wood. The background is decorated with the symbol of the Holy Trinity which, on a red background, stands out against a relief of dark clouds illuminated by all the rays.

Two caryatids act as columns framing the room and support a spectacular arch-shaped structure supported by volutes surmounted by a ball.

A large crown extends and completes this spectacular tabernacle which has been preserved in good condition.
