Large cherry wood sideboard,
made in Italy in the first half of the 1800s.
Large pantry or sacristy furniture,
thanks to its large size it is suitable for multiple uses.
The upper top was probably in marble and over the years it has been replaced by a more refined one in wood.
Under the top there are three drawers with lock and key.
By opening the doors you have access to a large compartment divided in the center by a solid shelf.
The rounded corners give the front a softer look.
Restored and polished with shellac internally and externally
